Quiet Session Town Council Last Monday

Just A Quorum As Three Councillors Are Ill

With just a quorum at the regular council meeting last Monday, owing to illness, very little new business was transacted. Those present were Mayor Sangster and councillors, Newnham, Evans and Willis.

Mr T Pitt waited on Council and made an offer of $60.00 for a vacant building on Main St. North. After investigation the council set the price at $75.00.

The school board wrote asking for $1500 for school purposes. The request was granted.

A letter was read from the School Board informing council that the Board had been informed by the Utilities Commission that the financial statement submitted was not acknowledged, as the appointment of the auditor had not been approved by the commission.

The secretary was appointed assessor for this year, and Mr F Broughton was appointed a distant assessor.

Accounts as passed by the finance committee were approved for payment.

The auditor's report for the year 1936 was presented and was approved.

Mortgage Co's Offer Interest Reduction

Cancellation of interest arrears on farm mortgage loans prior to January 1st, 1935, in the drought area, of Alberta, is believed to be the feature of the debt reduction plan to be proposed to the Alberta government by representatives of the Canadian mortgage companies today or tomorrow.

As their proposal, it was reported will be a reduction in interest rates to straight six per cent. The plan divides the province into two sections, drought and the remainder.

For the drought section, the plan will recommend far reaching debt relief and in the rest of the province the financial difficulties of the farmers will be considered on their merits.

Mr A H Reilly, who has been an enthusiastic Social Credit supporter in Medicine Hat, has been appointed agent for the Department of Trade and Industry as secretary of the Advisory Board of Trade and Commerce and the administrator of codes. He will move to Calgary where he will be located in the Loughhead

Mrs W Bermingham Passed Away Sunday

Funeral Took Place Here Last Wednesday Afternoon

Mrs. Wilmet Bermingham, who has not been enjoying the best of health for the past few months, passed away in the hospital last Sunday afternoon, as a result of a severe attack of pneumonia.

Deceased, who was 62 years of age, was born in Carlton County, New Brunswick. She came west with her husband and son in 1917 and after farming in this district for a time they moved to town in 1922 and have resided here ever since.

The funeral took place from Gordon Memorial church on Wednesday afternoon and the remains were interred in Redcliff cemetery.

Besides her husband deceased leaves a son, Archie, who lives at home, to mourn her loss.

New Regulations For Taxes and Lease Rent

Payments Will Be Spread Over Seven Years

New regulations governing the leasing of government lands for agricultural purposes in Southern Alberta are announced.

Under these regulations there is a consolidation of taxes and lease rentals with payments spread over a period of seven years.

An Ancient Custom Still Lingers on

Early Church Started Fish Habit Long Ago

Fishermen from the Atlantic to the Pacific are hopeful that the present effort of the Canadian government to promote the consumption of Canadian fish will result in a more plentiful supply of fish throughout the week rather than confining it to Fridays.

Though fish has been eaten as food since prehistoric times the early Christian Church decreed that no meat should be eaten on Fridays and fast days but that fish might be substituted. From that arose a practice that has persisted down to the present time and has led people of every denomination to associate fish with Friday often to the virtual exclusion of other days.

Dr Robinson, our member in the legislature, will move the reply to the speech from the throne when the legislature convenes tomorrow.

Debate at High School Wednesday March 3rd

Visitors Will Be Welcome To Hear Interesting Subject

On Wednesday afternoon March 3rd the school Literary Society is holding a debate on "Resolved, that the present Alberta government has so far justified its existence." Those upholding the affirmative side are three students popularly known as "the three musketeers": Carol Selhorn leader, Kaja McEwen and Zaida Bamforth.

Those on the negative side are Ellen Howe leader, Gordon Balthasar and June McLeod. As the subject of the debate is of great interest to all Albertans at the present time visitors will be made welcome at this meeting. There will be no admission charge. The debate commences at 3:30 p.m. sharp. No one however will be admitted after the commencement of the debate.

Alberta Gov't. Declares Sixty Days Moratorium

As Permits Gov't. Declared Debt Act Ultra Vires

As the outcome of the resolution and settlement of debt act has been ruled by the Alberta Supreme Court, the Alberta government declared yesterday that a 60 day moratorium would be enforced. It applies to debts contracted before Jan. 1st, 1936 with an extensive list of exemptions.

This move was designed to prevent foreclosures and give the provincial government time to make more attacks on the debt problem.

Railway employees in Canada are now taking a vote to test their opinion as to the finding of the arbitration committee, and whether or not they should go on strike.

Modern Travel Problem Forces Removal of Statue

Those Canadians who have seen the above statue of Queen Victoria in London will probably be surprised to learn that it is no longer where it was near Blackfriars Bridge. In order to comply with a new traffic scheme the statue has been moved to a new site nearer the river.

Court Decides Alta. Legislation Is Ultra Vires

Second Enactment of the Alta. Govt. Outlawed

The Alberta Securities Interests Act, under which the Alberta government reduced interest on provincial bonds and guaranteed securities, was declared unconstitutional by Justice Ives of the Alberta Supreme Court. It was the second major enactment of the Alberta government outlawed in 1936 by the Alberta Supreme Court, the first being the "Education and Settlement of the A.I.A. The Province slashed interest rates June 1, 1936 from an average of 4.25 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent, the estimated yearly saving being $3,500,000.

W. M. S. President Here Next Sunday

Is Daughter of The Late Rev And Mrs Gordon

The newly old friends of the late Rev Mr Gordon, after whom Gordon Memorial church was named, and Mrs Gordon, will be glad to know that their daughter, Mrs Forbes, now resident in Women's Ministry Society of the United Church of Canada, will pay a visit to Redcliff this week end.

Mrs Forbes will address the congregation at Gordon Memorial Church on Sunday evening.

As she has just returned from an official visit to China there is no doubt her address will be most interesting, instructive and educational, to both young and old.

There should be a large attendance at this service.

The provincial legislature opens today.

Hon E C Manning, who has been ill for several months, will attend the opening of the legislature.

Mrs. Stratton Senior Passed Away Monday

Was Born in Scotland And Resided Here 14 Years

Mrs Jessie Dora Stratton, widow of the late Robert Stratton, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs Robt. Moore, last Monday morning.

Deceased who was born at Hamilton, Scotland 84 years ago, came to Canada in 1910 and has resided in Redcliff for the past 14 years.

The funeral took place from Gordon Memorial church on Wednesday afternoon and the remains were interred in Redcliff cemetery.

Deceased leaves three sons and two daughters: Messrs. James and Andrew and Mrs. Moore of Redcliff and a son and daughter in Scotland.

AN AWFUL PREDICAMENT

A few months ago a New York banking house received the following letter from an Oklahoma client in response to their request that he immediately reduce his collateral loan: "Gentlemen—It is impossible for me to pay you a check. My present financial condition is due to the effects of federal laws, state laws, country laws, provincial laws, by-laws, brother-in-law, mother-in-law, and outlaws that have been forced upon an unassuming public. Through the various laws, I have walked in, sat on flattened and squeezed, until I do not know where I am, what I am and why I am."

These laws compel me to pay a merchant's tax, capital stock tax, income tax, auto tax, sales tax, light tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, syntax and carpet tax.

The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it. I am suspected, expected, disrespected, humiliated, re-examined until I know it is that I'm supplicated for money for every known need, desire, or hope of the human race; and because I refuse to fall and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away, I am cussed and discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, fed to, led about, held up, held down and robbed until I am nearly ruined. And the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what t' hell's coming next.

NEW TRADE PACT WITH OLD COUNTRY

The new trade agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom has been signed by officials of both governments. It is reported the new treaty will provide importation tariff concessions for British textiles sold in Canada.

The treaty will come before the federal house when the budget is brought down.

Twelve Liberals in the federal house voted against their party motion but they were not read out of the party.

It has been announced that the Bank of Canada will investigate the financial condition of Alberta, similar to what is being done in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Move to Start Co-Operative Co. Here in Redcliff

Local Citizens

Questionnaires are being distributed around town to get the consensus of opinion of the public for the establishing of a co-operative store here in Redcliff.

Those who receive the circulars are asked if they are willing to take stock in the proposed enterprise and also an estimate of the amount of goods they purchase every two weeks.

It appears to us the distribution of the circulars is a little premature as those who receive them have no idea or information as to what the plan is and who are responsible for its movement.

It is our opinion that those responsible for instigating the move should call a public meeting and give a detailed outline of plans, specifications, prospects, possibilities, and information and experience of those who have been solicited. Without full information and knowledge of the responsibility behind the signature of the individual who signs the document, it would be foolish and possibly risky to sign.

The proposition should be run on open and business lines from the start and a thorough outline of the plan and prospects, given to prospective investors.

Main highways both east and west are still unfit for bus and auto traffic. The highways here to Medicine Hat will all covered with four or five feet of snow packed like ice, and there is a road trail over the south of the highway to the Hat.

Southern Alberta must do much more than it has done to make itself drought proof. We let enough water year to waste even in the drier years while, if conserved, would provide more permanent agriculture. Our big job is to conserve the water. That's a job in which every organization, interested in the future of South Alberta must lend a hand. Lethbridge Herald.

Reduction In World Stocks Of Grains Striking Feature Of World's Wheat Situation

The reduction in world stocks of wheat from the high levels prevailing from 1929 until 1935 is probably the most striking feature of the present wheat situation. The American Situation and Outlook for 1937, which has just been issued, states: "For the 1936-37 season, it is evident that there will not be the wide margin between world exportable supplies and probable import requirements which existed in increasing degrees between 1929 and 1934." This change in world stocks was brought about by a succession of comparatively short crops, particularly in North America.

The total wheat harvest in 1936, exclusive of Russia and China, is estimated at 88 million bushels below the 1935 total. The fact that part of this reduction occurred in the exporting countries of Western Europe has brought about a distribution of supplies which is tending to increase world shipments of wheat during 1936-37. World wheat shipments during the crop year 1935-36 reached a total of only 52,000,000 bushels. Estimates of world wheat requirements for the present crop year now range from 80 to 85 million bushels. The Canadian wheat harvest has also been reduced. On August 1, 1936, stocks of wheat in Canada stood at 200.3 million bushels, the same date in 1935 the total had been reduced to 164.4 million bushels. This substantial reduction, together with the small crop harvested in 1936, reduced the exportable surplus to such an extent that it is unlikely that exports from Canada will be as high as a percentage of total world shipments as they were in 1935-36. During that year, Canada supplied almost fifty per cent. of the total world import requirements.

The average annual wheat in the United States is estimated to approximate 57.2 million acres. This the largest acreage in history. Wheat acreage in other countries also remain at high levels and should yield in 1937 approximating the normal figure of previous years. Production would again be in excess of import requirements and stocks would again increase.

Wheat production in Canada in 1936 now estimated at 30,063,000 cwt., is only fractionally higher than in 1935 when the crop yielded 29,670,000 cwt. Excellent yields in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, northern districts of the Prairie Provinces and in British Columbia more than offset the low yields in Ontario and the southern districts of the Prairie Provinces occasioned by severe snow and drought.

Alfalfa seed production in Canada in 1936 is preliminary estimates at approximately 2,100,000 pounds as compared with 1,100,000 pounds in 1935, and 1,400,000 pounds in 1934. Most of the seed was grown in Ontario, but substantial amounts were raised in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia.

Farmers in Central China use oxen, water buffaloes, and donkeys for farm work as well as those of North China employ camels, mules, and horses for transportation, and donkeys and oxen for the more intensive work on the farms. Some Mongol farmers breed camels exclusively for their work, much in the same way as sheep in Canada.

Pedigree certificates of pure-bred animals registered by the Canadian National Live Stock Records, approved by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, during 1936 numbered 52,372. Of these, 3,569 were horses; 28,112 cattle; 13,504 sheep; 9,200 ewes; 6,929 foals; 8,044 dogs; 2,820 poultry, and 108 goats.

Stamps turned up at the police station.

"Chief, has 'Ah' definite protection," he said. "Ah does not, a unanimous letter this morning" which says, "Nigger, let this chicken alone."

"Why do you want protection?" asked the chief of police. "Just leave the chickens alone, and you'll be all right."

"That's all right, boss, but how does Ah know whose chickens I've to leave alone?"

Man From Canada Joins Life In Carolina Swampland

Marooned in the jungle swamps of the Carolina swamps, a man from New Toronto, Since 1913 he has been living off the flats of the St. Lawrence river, where his only neighbors are "poor whites" and Negroes. There, 1,000 miles from home, he has his plot of corn and beans a wife and children. Gradually he is losing any desire to return to his native Canada.

He was discovered by Dr. R. M. Saunders of the University of Toronto who tells of meeting him on an expedition into the Carolina swamps. "I forgot his name, but amongst the swamps he is known as 'the man from Canada,'" the doctor says.

He was once a brakeman on the Great Canadian Railway on the west coast of Canada. He left Canada to take a position with an American line on the Atlantic seaboard. There he lost his job and was stranded near Charleston. That is all Dr. Saunders knows of this ex-Canadian who has made his home in the swamps.

How the man came to marry and settle down among the "crackers" Dr. Saunders does not know. He says the man lives on corn and beans and once in a while they catch a wild pig. Something keeps him there, perhaps the influence of the climate or perhaps his wife and children. Dr. Saunders doesn't know.

Queen Of The Netherlands

Governs Royal Household But Other Powers Are Limited

Although Queen Wilhelmina does not rule Holland with a rod of iron, it is no secret that she does govern the royal household without hindrance. Apart from the home lessons in statescraft, history attended the University of Leyden where she went into broader matters, especially law and politics.

But her mother's training is said to have stuck. About the country people say that the queen and her daughter have dictated. They are known to be opposed to the Dutch labor movement which counts some 50,000 members.

Dutch sovereigns are limited in their powers, and it wasn't so long ago that there were no royal appointments in the Netherlands. The queen's simplicity, her aversion to money and her scrupulous observance of the constitution are credited with having run this movement around. Not much has been heard of it since 1925.

During the depression years, Queen Wilhelmina voluntarily reduced her household as well as those of her daughter and of her mother who died in 1934. This saved the Dutch treasury several hundred thousand guilders and was an act much commented upon by the people.

Rules Wife In London

When the Sultan of Selangor started back to his kingdom in Malaya after a visit in London a procession of servants carrying 10 pots of steaming chicken preceded him. When the Sultan arrived in London he and his beautiful young wife took a fancy to English chicken for dinner. To conform to the requirements of the Mohammedan faith it was necessary to keep her fowls at the fashionable and exclusive hotel where the court stayed. The birds were killed and prepared for the table by the Sultan's own chefs from Selangor. When he announced the date of his departure it was decided to make a curry of all birds that remained, and eat it while warm during the early stages of the journey. The Sultan of Selangor received $75,000 a year and rules over 500,000 people.

This Inventive Age

Master Minds Still Working To Make Life Easier

The one hundredth anniversary of the federal patent law now being celebrated discloses the fact that America's master minds are still working to make life easier. Among the clever devices for which patents have been granted are:

A mechanism built with cheese that automatically ties a bell to a rat's neck and turns him loose to frighten away his fellows;

A "pistol coffee-maker," by which coffee is brewed to your mouth without air into your nose to warm your feet;

A coffin built to be rung by an unhappy mortal who wakes up in his mortal "dear" and buried;

A traveling washing machine, filled with suds and dirty clothes and attached to the auto's running board. All the laundrymen need to do is to drive his car over rough roads.

Life-saving suspenders, made of drop-proof thread that can be unraveled to permit a man, entrapped in a burning building to swing to safety;

A cylinder rotor covered with manure for waving down in the states (ouch!);

A hair-raising mechanism for hanging holes in male socks into which hairs are planted.

Well, we think the patent law is a great thing. They laughed when Ben Franklin helped himself to a spot of lightning with a door key—New York Times-Telegram.

New Safety Pocket

Invention That Will Safeguard Money Has Been Patented

Every man has his own method of safeguarding money—and women, too, whether it be the charge of a trusty note down her stocking or her husband hiding a dollar underneath the pillow.

Now all of this mystery and ingenuity is to go. A pocket has been patented that will defy anything from prying fingers to ransom and theft.

Invented by Mr. A. Hillier of Preston, England, the new pocket is woven in a fine wire mesh of special alloy.

The mouth of the pocket is closed by an improved form of flap fastener, which is operated from a different pocket by means of an ingenious arrangement of strings and loops.

London with its fogs continues to have the lowest mortality record per thousand of inhabitants to any city in the world.

Modern Conventions Are Not Available In Rent Village

Stansted (Kent) is only 23 miles from London, yet it has no gas, no electricity, no bus service, no village hall, no village constable, and no taxi.

It is nearly two miles to the nearest bus route, and if any of its 400 old residents want to hire a car, they have to telephone to Wrotham, three and a half miles away.

A few of the larger houses have their own plant for making electricity, but only those who have witnessed the illumination. It has only one shop and a post office is attached, but money orders have to be obtained at Paley post-office, a mile and a half from the centre of the village.

Diplomats Have Their Troubles

Through Lack Of Adequate Laundry Facilities In Moscow

A grave crisis confronts the Moscow diplomatic corps over the belated short queues.

With the winter social whirl at its height, and with foreign diplomats called on to dine out nightly in formal attire, the lack of adequate laundry facilities has posed a serious problem for worried ambassadors, ministers and secretaries.

The National Hotel, the only place where diplomats can have their household dress shirts, has arbitrarily refused to take orders to clean.

The few Chinese laundries in the capital plead they cannot obtain starch.

A 30-day shift service at $3 per shirt is the best that can be offered.

Replicas Of Crown Jewels

Making Of These Jewels Will Stimulate Trade

One of the variety of ways in which the coronation party may be given to stimulate trade is in the making of replicas of the crown jewels for distribution throughout England and the empire and the dominions of the Commonwealth.

The coronation regalia, being reproduced for display includes the crown of England, known as Saint Edward's crown. Of massive gold and gem-studded, it is so heavy that almost as soon as it is placed on the King's head it is removed and replaced by the much lighter imperial state crown, one of the most valuable crowns in existence, substituting with diamonds of precious stones more than 2,700 of which are diamonds. In the front glows a ruby from Burma, large as a hen's egg, before the ruby flame the second largest of the "Stars of Africa," a diamond weighing almost 310 carats.

Many Indications Point To A Definite Increase In World Trade Conditions

Eagle Disappointed To Find Chicken Was Just Metal Bird

The belief that eagles are gifted with piercing eyes, and hence with an exceptionally strong eyesight, seems to be a legend. Here's a story from Davis, Italy, which tells why.

A royal eagle frightened by the sight of a flock of Alpine game hunters, flew down the valley in search of a more secure refuge. Passing over the village of Pian, the bird sighted what it thought was a chicken flying above the houses. Seeing a good prey, the eagle swooped down with bill wide and swift wings, and began to peck furiously at the supposed prey.

The eagle had mistaken for a live chicken the metal ventresque which for centuries has been revolving on top of the church spire.

The disappointed bird came to still with a short, sharp breath, and then, as if he had witnessed the unequal fight from the street, rushed with a shot-gun to a roof across the square, and from there aimed the eagle.

The bird, which had a 78-inch wing span, is an exhibit in the Doria Museum.

Hogans who first over winter cold battle would be content with their lot if they talked with Dr. A. G. MacKinnon, who has just returned to civilization after a two-year stay in Pangnirtung, Baffin Land.

One ton of coal up there costs over $100 and most Eskimoes could not afford to buy more than a few tons.

Very little coal, of course, is used in the far north. Eskimoes never use it and their fuel consists of seal oil which they burn in lamps for cooking and for heat in their igloos.

A little coal is used by the white men who live in the area.

World trade appears to have definitely turned the corner and for the first nine months of 1936 was showing increases over the previous year.

Recovery in world trade, however, has not kept pace with recovery in individual countries. This fact indicates that many of the forces which have impeded international trade in recent years are still far from being removed. It is encouraging to Canadians to notice that the trade of both Great Britain and the United States has been increasing, as these two countries form the principal market for Canadian export sales. The question of international Trade conditions is carefully analyzed in the fourth annual Agricultural Situation and Outlook, which has been published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and Trade and Commerce.

Trade in Agricultural Footstuffs has not recovered to the same extent as other trade in agricultural products. This fact is attributed to the shift in production which has taken place in the countries of high tariff barriers and the use of many new barriers to trade. In recent months, however, there has been some relaxation of these trade barriers. This change of attitude gives a somewhat brighter outlook to the world trade picture. Another feature which is tending to relieve the situation is the trade agreement between the United States and Canada.

The uncertainty of currency exchange rates, however, is a factor which would tend to restrict the decision of France to devalue the franc, in cooperation with Great Britain, and the United States has had a settling effect on foreign exchange.

For the first year ended March 31, 1936, Canada exported agricultural produce valued at $290,488,000, which was an increase of 16.7 per cent. over the previous year. Approximately 64 per cent. of the farm materials exported go to Great Britain and 21 per cent. to the United States.

Professor Investigating New Source For Horse In Scotland

Professor M. Newstead, who discovered the breeding place of the horse in the African jungle, and saved thousands from the dread sleeping sickness, is to attack a new source of the disease. He is responsible for the deaths of thousands of horses in Scotland, particularly in Aberdeenshire, and may be the cause of the disease in the United States.

Professor Newstead has consented to make the research, according to reports in the London Times, of David Milne, head of a large seed firm, who will finance the work. "My name," Professor Newstead, "is that the disease is caused by an invisible virus which can only be isolated and overcome by inoculation of healthy animals with serum taken from a diseased animal. In my opinion it is a question of Louis Pasteur and anthrax all over again."

Proud Of Their Country

People Of Scottish Ancestry Are Always Very Loyal

A rather significant aspect of the accession of King George VI, and the Queen Consort, to the throne, is the sentimental effect that it will have in Scotland. The fact that the Queen is a descendant of an ancient Scottish family should bind the northern part of the United Kingdom to the monarchy. A good deal of humor has been shown in the papers of an old Scottish woman when she heard that the Princess Louise, daughter of Queen Victoria, had married the Marquis of Lorne, a son of the Marquis of Lorne, a son of the Marquis of Lorne, a son of the Marquis of Lorne.

"The Queen will be a proud woman this day," she said, "my daughter marrying an Argyle."—Bradford Expounder.

About the Neighbours

Somebody once said it takes all kinds of people to make a world. Most of us agree they are all here. You may like all your neighbours and you may not. The point is, it not, WHY not?

Would you remain friendly with the man who told you one thing one day and the opposite the next? Would you prefer a neighbour who always lived up to his promises, to one who promised one thing one day and did something entirely different the next?

Would you lend your closest neighbour your knife or wagon if you had no reason to suppose he would ever return it? Or would you lend him your cold chisel if you knew he would tell all his friends you were the most unreasoning and most greedy person alive?

Do you think for a minute your community would be more harmonious, a better place in which to live if everybody did the best they could, were as fair in their dealings with each other as you would have your neighbour be with you? Is it not a marvellous feeling to know you can trust your neighbour? Is there any excuse your neighbour can possibly make that would pardon him in your own mind for suddenly disregarding all agreements or promises he ever made to you?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Lenders Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 24 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. It is known to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.
(The fifth statement in this series will be published in two weeks)

Poultry in Canada showed an increase of five per cent on June 1st, when the census was taken, over the recording at the same date in 1935. Despite this increase the price of eggs during 1936 averaged higher than during the previous year. The latest satisfactory results from the farmer's standpoint, as brought about by greater expansion of consumption of eggs in Canada, is only a firm demand from Great Britain.

As a Life Insurance Policyholder You Share in the Ownership of These Valuable Assets

Government Bonds First Mortgages Municipal Bonds
Industrial Securities Public Utility Bonds

YOUR savings in Life Insurance—which help to form the Assets of the company in which you are insured—not only protect you and your family but also make you a part owner of high-grade securities.

For example—as a Life Insurance policyholder, you share in the ownership of Government and Municipal bonds. These bonds provide for the construction of highways, railways, canals, schools, water and sewage systems, and other important public enterprises.

You likewise have a definite financial interest in Canadian industries, and in Canadian homes and farms.

The Life Insurance companies, which your enterprise and thrift have built up, acting on behalf of yourself and 3,500,000 other policyholders, invest the Assets you have entrusted to them. In making these investments, they exercise the utmost care to secure safety with a satisfactory yield.

Of the combined Assets in the Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada, the major part is invested in Government and Municipal bonds and debentures. Large amounts are also invested in first mortgages on carefully selected city, town and farm properties, and in loans to policyholders.

You can take satisfaction in the fact that Life Insurance companies in Canada have faithfully discharged their obligations. Even in periods of greatest financial stress, every obligation guaranteed by their policies has been fulfilled.

Opportunities On The Farm

Greater For Making Living Says
Woman Who Knows

"Rural districts offer the average woman greater opportunity for making a living than do crowded cities," says Mrs. May R. Driscoll, city woman who made good in the country. And, accompanied by nothing less than a Prince (full title: "The Honorable Prince of Mayfield"), Mrs. Driscoll went back to New York the other day and received home town recognition.

The small, vivacious, motherly-looking Mrs. Driscoll went especially surprised about it all, however. Some she felt all along that Prince (a 42-pound turkey) would take first prize in the "brood breed" exhibit at the National Poultry Show, He did.

"Learning to raise animals or feed successfully isn't any more difficult than mastering selling, typing or book-keeping. I didn't know anything about rural life until seven years ago. To me, a turkey was just a bird which hangs by its heels in butcher shops around Thanksgiving time. I'd lived in the city all of my life."

Mrs. Driscoll went on to say that a good many types of farming, especially poultry raising, are more suitable for women than men. Recently, nine of the 19 turkey exhibitors at the Poultry Show were women.

Mrs. Driscoll was born in Scotland, came to America when she was three, married and lived in New York until 1930. The summer of that year, she and her son (he's a radio news reporter now) bought a small summer ranch in Minnesota.

The next year, the depression having made a considerable dent in her purse, Mrs. Driscoll put turkey on the ranch. Now she has one of the largest flocks in the country, and her husband has taken pride in writing at poultry shows in various states.

Salvaging Sunk Ships

Is Very Slow Process And Requires Skilled Men

Every year salvage companies raise from the depths of the seven seas vessels that have sunk in storms, through accidents, or have been scuttled. It is a slow, laborious process and calls for skilled workmen and machinery.

Ships when they salvage operations are conducted must be equipped with pumping plants, air compressors, electric lighting plants, drilling machines, rock-boring drills, and pneumatic hammers designed for use under water. Two general methods are followed in raising ships. By the first, used in relatively shallow water, air compressors force water out of the ship and air into the hull.

The second method, employed for ships sunk at great depths, makes use of pontoons, which are lowered to the wreck and fastened to the hull. The pontoons are then inflated with compressed air, and the ship is raised.

Where there is no tide, flexible steel cables are run under the boat and attached to steel water-filled cylinders. Compressed air is pumped into these special cylindrical pontoons, driving out the water. As the pontoons rise, they lift the ship. Some of these cylinders are capable of raising 200 tons.

New Kind Of School

People Of All Ages Enrolled At Glasgow, Scotland

Glasgow, Scotland, has a new kind of school, where ones may keep on learning all one's life. Grandfathers, parents and their children have already enrolled in the number of 4,000 and there is room for 2,000 more in the various classes. The institution is the South East Essex Technical College. The pupils include boys of 11, men who want to learn "the three R's," boys of 16 learning a trade, and business men, some of whom earn $8,000 a year, who are brushing up on their technical knowledge. Principal P. J. Haer says the primary object of the college is to tell all ages how to earn bread and butter, but there will be "baby" classes for parents whose children attend night classes.

PESTILENCE ADDS TO TERRORS OF FLOOD VICTIMS

Their residents forced to flee for their lives before the rushing torrents of the Ohio river, these buildings echo hollowly to the battering forces of the floodtide as it swirls through the deserted streets of Lawrenceburg, Ind., above. One of the most severely stricken of cities along the Indiana border, this distillery center suffered losses because of its position at the juncture of the Ohio and Big Miami rivers.

Required Quick Thinking

Awkward Situation Handled By Bryan In Clever Way

In his four round novel, William Jennings Bryan, then America's Secretary of State, attended a banquet in Japan. This was after the great naval victories of Admiral Togo against the Russians.

Compliments between the United States and Japan were exchanged, but a clear voice rang out: "I propose a toast to Admiral Togo, the victor."

The Japanese stood and raised their champagne glasses. Mr. Bryan's touring companions, knowing his courage in defying his strong anti-ligue convictions, wondered what he would do; they were sure that, being present as an official and not as a private citizen, he would not offend Japan by refusing to pay honor to its hero.

Now was the critical moment. Would the over-ready wit of the American statesman be equal to this situation?

Bryan rose: "Friends, by all means let us pay tribute to Admiral Togo, but since the Admiral won all his victories on the water, let us drink to him that element."

Settling down their champagne glasses, the Japanese responded enthusiastically to this original compliment and made the hall resound with their shouts of "Bran!" Christian Science Monitor.

The Favorite Vegetable

Survey In Children's Camps Shows Potato Stands First

If it means anything, the Children's Welfare Federation of New York has discovered youngsters from six to 36 years of age like spinach and greens hardly out of the hair ribbon stage have ideas about romance.

The federation announced the results of a survey on children's likes and dislikes. To strike general averages, the organization canvassed 217 children's camps with a population of 110,000.

Things like this were asked the recipients of the questionnaire: What subjects do you like best in school? What vegetables do you like best? What do you want to be when you grow up?

The favorite vegetable proved to be the potato, but spinach was close behind for both boys and girls. The biggest single response on the vocation question put to the boys was, "I want to be a newspaper man when I grow up."

World Dairy Produce

Milk Almost As Valuable In Canada As Wheat Crop

The breeding of animals for milk must rank as one of the world's oldest industries, and, for the world as a whole, milk is probably still the main source of farming income, and the Dairy Produce report of the Imperial Economic Committee. In the United States, the production of cows milk exceeds in value that of wheat and even in Canada is worth little less than the wheat crop. In the United Kingdom, milk production by value easily exceeds that of any other farm commodity.

Statistics of the world production of butter are incomplete but sufficient information exists for the countries interested in inter-trade to indicate that the increase appeared for many years (interrupted only by the Great War) continued between 1929 and 1931 in Empire countries generally and in most importing countries.

In the world trade in liquid eggs and in slushes and yolks of eggs prepared and preserved in various ways, China is the source of about 90 per cent. of the total world's exports. This trade in egg products has grown in post-war years from very small dimensions to an important trade.

Search May Be Ended

Believe Coffin Of French Knight Has Been Found

Discovery of a coffin believed to hold the body of Chevalier Pierre Bayard, France's "most pure knight" and hero of sixteenth century wars, has been announced by the French Ministry of Education.

The coffin of the famous knight, "sans peur, sans reproche" (fearless and faultless), had been the object of a search for more than 100 years since the Chevalier's death in 1524.

With a will of Bayard's uncle, the search was continued in which the knight's relative described the burial place of his nephew, members of the Bayard family began digging at the site. After ten days of labor the searchers found four coffins, one of which was believed to contain the Chevalier's body. All were sealed pending examination by experts.

Served With German Army

Woman Enlisted In Great War Given Medal For Bravery

Victoria Cross, who as a girl fought in the great war, has just been honored at Dortmund, Germany.

At the age of 16, she was in the trenches, serving in the rank of the German army and by the side of her father. They were both in the Tynaroller battalion.

She displayed conspicuous courage in action and was awarded a medal for bravery. She became known as the heroine of the Three Turms for gallantry in a sector of the line so named.

In September, 1917, out on patrol in No Man's Land, she was severely wounded and lost a leg.

Now the German Association of Heroines has hailed her as a heroine, taken her under its protection, and sent her to a home.

Stock Car Inspectors

Are Maintained At 28 Railway Centres In Canada

Stock car inspectors are maintained by the Health of Animals Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, at 28 railway centres throughout Canada and all stock cars passing through these points are cleaned and disinfected when necessary. Cars carrying hides, wool, and other restricted products are cleaned and disinfected under supervision before being used for any other purpose. Automobile trucks which have carried diseased animals are also cleaned and disinfected.

People Should Read Policy

A motor car, though fully insured when driven by its licensed owner, loses its insurance when the owner allows the vehicle to be driven by a friend or relative or employee or anyone else who does not hold a driver's license. That is according to the terms of the standard insurance policy which many people say is too few trouble to read.

The Safest Frontier

"It is a regrettable fact that after millenniums of civilizing work, the safest frontier is one behind which no one lives," declared Her Majesty, Swedish Foreign Minister at a peace meeting at Norrkoping. "The northern states have the North Pole at their backs, and that is safe, because nobody lives there."

Italy's felt hat industry is expanding.

Hardy Apples

Success Attends Efforts Made To Produce Apples Suitable For Growth In Prairie Provinces

Contained in the progress report of the Division of Horticulture, Experimental Farms Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, issued for the years 1931-32-33, the story of the improvement of the apple for the Great Northwest of Canada is of interesting ones. In 1887, the late Dr. Wm. Saunders commenced an apple breeding project with the origination of hardy apples for the Canadian Prairies. In 1911 he published a bulletin describing his results to that date. Dr. Saunders approached this problem by the use of the extremely hardy "Tyron Baccata," an apple scarcely larger than a good sized pea.

The first generation of hybrids were crosses between this apple and apples such as Huxia, Pinesha, Yellow Transparent, McIntosh Red, Tetofsky, and others of similar kind. From these first crosses there were produced a number of hybrids, all of which were hardy, about one inch in diameter. Later, a second lot of commercial apples was introduced from varieties in Canada, such as Red, Northrup, and others. These second crosses were still very crab-like in nature, but produced fruits up to 2 1/2 inches in diameter. After Dr. Saunders' death, this work was continued by the production of more second crosses and by the introduction of a third lot of commercial fruits from varieties like McIntosh Red.

From among the first crosses, two successes stand out—Oren and Colud—and these two are without doubt the hardiest and most valuable commercial size growing in Canada and appear to form a foundation for the future development of Dr. Saunders' aspiration. From among the second crosses, there were a few outstanding ones, in which the knight's relative described the burial place of his nephew, members of the Bayard family began digging at the site. After ten days of labor the searchers found four coffins, one of which was believed to contain the Chevalier's body. All were sealed pending examination by experts.

The third crosses of recent origin have been developed from the use of the best of these second crosses, "Oren" and "Colud," with McIntosh, Wealthy, and such others. During the past few years, over 90 of these have been produced, producing a variable number. The best of these were selected for distribution throughout the Prairie Provinces where they are being grown for a hardiness test.

The Way We Speak

Many People Are Careless In Pronunciation Of Common Words

We are not defending sloppiness of speech. There is a place for the poet in education, for the prosody in the study of literature. But the like Mr. Love to preserve the dignity and beauty of the English language, should not deteriorate into a gibberish.

What we do object to, however, is the careless use of common words as "cath" for "cath," and "tin" instead of "can." We have noticed this among the children in some sections of Western Ontario. In Eastern Ontario the farmers pronounce "cath" as "cath" and "tin" as "tin." Both Canadian and American women have a habit of putting two syllables into one-syllable words and adding an extra syllable to such words as "demand" which they pronounce as "demmand."

Mr. Love qualified his criticism by stating that the best English he had ever heard was spoken by a man born in Holland. And it can be stated that the best English spoken in Canada is by some of the English-Canadian of Quebec. But the best of all English is that spoken in Dublin, Ireland—Staford-Reacher-Hill.

Has Set Up Substitutes

Chancellor Hitler has set up a German substitute for the word "prisoner." He declared "forever banished to Germany." A national German newspaper for knowledge and science is founded for distribution each year to three German-speaking cities. Each will receive 100,000 marks (the mark is currently in force about 40 cents).

Substantial Increase

Breeding poultry and eggs produced in the United States in 1930, in 1930, was an increase of about $400,000, when compared with 1929. The estimated egg production was 13,500,000 dozen with an average production of 294 eggs per hen.

SHE WAS AFRAID TO SHAKE HANDS Rheumatism in Joints Caused Her Intense Pain

Read this letter from a woman describing the manner in which she was affected by rheumatism.

"For several years," she writes, "I suffered with rheumatism of the joints, especially in my hands and arms. The condition was so severe that I was even afraid to shake hands with anyone, for it made me suffer terribly. I began taking Kruschen salts regularly, and after a little while my joints disappeared completely. I am naturally delighted with Kruschen."

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The minerals salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action, and so help them to get rid of this excess uric acid.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Rev. A. W. F. Blunt, Bishop of Bradford, has suggested that the Church of England and the free churches unite in coronation services in parish churches.

An epidemic of legionnaires struck London. Out of fourteen legions cases were treated in hospital, while many broken arms were set and patients sent home.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden indirectly invited Germany to participate in League of Nations disarmament committee sessions in Geneva May 6.

Sir Philip Sassoon, air under-secretary, told the House of Commons that aircraft factories are being built and will soon be constructed in line with Britain's rearmament program.

Dr. H. H. King, Ontario minister of finance, announced he had killed $300,000 to Admiral C. T. Grayson, head of the American Red Cross, to aid victims of the United States flood.

Twenty-three Alpine soldiers were killed, government officials disclosed, when they were overtaken by an avalanche of snow while on patrol in the Italian Alps. Bodies of six had been recovered.

According to a written judgment filed in court at Toronto by county court Judge P. M. Fitch, a parking lot proprietor is responsible for damage occurring to a customer's automobile while in the proprietor's custody.

The Scottish Aircraft and Engineering Company announced in London construction had started on a monoplane of the type of biplane type which will participate in the New York-Paris air race next August.

An Odd Friendship

Resident of Victoria has had a Gull Feared Friend.

After being fought from the hands of W. H. Ryan of Victoria, B.C., for eight winters this man's gull should know his benefactor.

Mr. Ryan instanced a few of the unusual things his odd feathered friend had done.

Once the big bird flew to the hood of his automobile while he was a block away and snatched Ryan's car.

Several times it has appeared at his club and chorused for a meal.

A member of the firm employing Ryan was embarrassed by the gull fluttering down the street after Ryan.

The gull shows up every year in October and leaves in January before he leaves on his annual flight to bring along his new mate for Ryan's approval.

Making Strange Ties

Fifty white ants "and a recipe for keeping them alive" are sent by a radio company in London. The ants will be offered without cost, including tips and similar gratuities. When it has been found that materials they will not eat, anti-proof material will be built for the troops.

Pests must build 10,000 apartments to end a shortage.

Modern birds chew their food with their stomachs, or gizzards.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or hemorrhoids, you can get relief by using the new "Pileo" ointment. It is a powerful, yet gentle, remedy for all kinds of hemorrhoids, whether internal or external. It is applied by rubbing it into the affected area, and it is so effective that it is used by many of the world's leading surgeons.

British Crown Lands

Exchanged By National Treasury For

King's Young Queen

As is customary in Britain, the new

King, George the Sixth, will turn the crimson robe over to the nation during his reign in exchange for a definite royal grant from the national treasury. The custom dates back to

George the Third, but that monarch did not transfer all of the crown lands, but only enough to gain the means of money he desired. William the Fourth, was more impetuous and he was the first sovereign to give up all of the crown lands.

The amount of money that King

George the Sixth and his Queen will receive from the nation probably has not been determined. The King will send a message to the Commons requesting that they give consideration to the matter and parliament will appoint a committee. The committee will consider not only the needs of the royal family but the possibility of effecting economies. King George

Edward the Seventh came to the throne the provision for the Royal

Household was estimated. Only one cent, kept Harle, the Socialist, spoke at that time as a champion of Queen Alexandra and wished to have

£50,000 voted to him as a separate grant. It was explained, then, with the king's permission, that £35,000 of the £110,000 being recommended by the committee for the Joint Privy

Purse would be allocated to the queen.

George the Fifth accepted a joint

Privy Purse of £17,000. In recent years he requested that this be reduced to £50,000. King George and Queen Mary were not ostentatious.

Whatever the amount for the new

King may be it is understood that the nation will gain financially by the arrangement.—Toronto Star Weekly.

Company and several of the railway's former services.

As part of a year's research work

King may be it is understood that new apparatus has been installed, a specialist trained staff permits 24 hours service, with five girls handling the trunk lines, giving information on train times, routes, and passenger parlor and sleeping car fares. By means of novel switching arrange-
